1 THE DEPUTY CLERK: In the matter of 16 CV 4511, SEC
2 versus Plaford et al., and 16 CV 4513, SEC versus Lumiere.

3 Counsel, please identify yourselves for the record.

4 MR. RIELY: Good morning, your Honor. Charles Riely,
5 with the plaintiff, SEC.

6 MR. SUNSHINE: Jason Sunshine, with the SEC.

7 MR. MCGINLEY: Good morning, your Honor. Ian
8 McGinley, Damian Williams and Josh Naftalis, for the 9 government.

10 THE COURT: Mr. McGinley, is one of you taking the 11 laboring oar this morning?

12 MR. MCGINLEY: Yes. I will, your Honor.

13 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you very much.

14 MR. CREIZMAN: Good morning, your Honor. Eric
15 Creizman, on behalf of Stefan Lumiere, who's sitting next to 16 me.

17 THE COURT: Good morning, sir.

18 And good morning, Mr. Lumiere.

19 MR. LUMIERE: Good morning.

20 MS. BURNS: Good morning, your Honor. Jade Burns, 21 from Kramer Levin Naftalis & Frankel, and I'm actually here in 22 the SEC v. Valvani matter -- we were asked to come -- and the 23 docket on that is 16 CIV 4512.

24 THE COURT: Ms. Burns, we welcome you this morning.
25 It was my understanding that the application to intervene and

G8BKSECC

CONFERENCE

1 for a stay was limited to the cases that bookend your case, but
2 am I mistaken? Is your case implicated as well?

3 MS. BURNS: It is not, your Honor. Mr. Valvani
4 actually passed away on the 20th.

5 THE COURT: I am aware, yes.

6 MS. BURNS: We got the notice. We weren't sure
7 whether I should come.

8 THE COURT: I'm happy to have you. And you represent?

9 MS. BURNS: I previously represented Mr. Valvani.

10 THE COURT: Mr. Valvani? You're not here on behalf of 11 Mr. Johnston?

12 MS. BURNS: No, I am not.

13 THE COURT: All right. Mr. McGinley, I'm happy to 14 have Ms. Burns here but if you think she's not necessary, I can 15 let her go as well.

16 MR. MCGINLEY: There's no need as far as the 17 government's motion to intervene. We had gotten the message to 18 have all the parties in all three matters here. I believe 19 counsel for Mr. Johnston was excused.

20 THE COURT: I received a late-breaking application to 21 have counsel for Mr. Johnston excused.

22 Ms. Burns, you're welcome to stay for a few minutes or 23 go, as you see fit -- I'm going to ask you to stay because 24 after we deal with the government's application, I do want to 25 understand what everyone's intent is. So, let me do that.

1 Thank you.

2 MS. BURNS: Thank you.

3 THE COURT: Sir.

4 MR. SMITH: Good morning, your Honor. David Smith, on 5 behalf of Christopher Plaford.

6 THE COURT: Good morning to you.

7 Mr. McGinley, let me tell you why I didn't just do
8 this on the papers. What was confusing to me -- and maybe it's 9 also confusing other people but maybe it's just me -- is that 10 there are three cases, and normally when I see applications of 11 this type, it's because all three cases are going to be stayed
12 or there's something to that effect, but that's not what I
13 understand to be happening here. You're seeking to intervene
14 just in two of the three cases and not in the other. You're 15 seeking only to stay two of the cases and not the other. I
16 guess I want some understanding of how the efficiencies that 17 are often cited as an argument for allowing the stay component
18 manifest themselves in a situation where one of these cases is 19 going forward.

20 MR. MCGINLEY: Yes, your Honor. I'm happy to address
21 that. And the SEC can obviously jump in if I get anything
22 wrong about the status of their matter.

23 THE COURT: Yes, sir.

24 MR. MCGINLEY: But my understanding -- just to give 25 your Honor the context, the case that we are not moving to stay

G8BKSECC

CONFERENCE

1 is the Johnston/Valvani case.

2 THE COURT: Yes.

3 MR. MCGINLEY: Mr. Valvani has passed away.

4 THE COURT: Yes.

5 MR. MCGINLEY: As to Mr. Johnston, he has pled guilty
6 to -- this is public -- to a cooperation agreement with the 7 government.

8 And Mr. Valvani, for the criminal matters,
9 Mr. Johnston has pled guilty; Mr. Valvani's case has been 10 nolleed by the government the criminal matter. My 11 understanding, your Honor, in talking with the SEC, is I
12 believe both of those cases on the civil side, meaning the SEC
13 case versus Johnston -- actually, I know that from talking to 14 the Johnston lawyer -- will be resolving very shortly. I think
15 they are close to a final resolution for your Honor.

16 THE COURT: And I will hear from Mr. Riely
17 momentarily.

18 Okay, so because of that, it was the government's view
19 there was no need to intervene in that case?

20 MR. MCGINLEY: Correct. And I think the SEC's case
21 against Valvani will also be resolved shortly.

22 THE COURT: Maybe that's news to Ms. Burns but, okay,
23 that's fine.

24 But I guess what was confusing to me is, if the issue
25 divides along whether one is a cooperating witness or

1 cooperating defendant or not, I didn't understand why you were 2 seeking in the Plaford matter to intervene and move to stay in 3 that case but perhaps I've misunderstood. I thought I read in 4 the papers that he too had pleaded guilty pursuant to a
5 cooperation agreement.

6 MR. MCGINLEY: He did, your Honor. And I believe the 7 reason why we did something different in that case and moved to 8 intervene is in that case, my understanding is, they're not as 9 close to a resolution on the civil side and they have been in 10 contact -- I know this from talking to Mr. Smith -- and are 11 working towards resolution. Mr. Plaford has pled guilty in the 12 criminal matter, so this case will resolve itself. The scheme
13 happened over a number of years and it involved mismarking of 14 hundreds of bonds, and so I think the issue in trying to reach
15 a resolution in the civil case right now, my understanding is 16 it boils down to deciding on a few numbers and ways to 17 calculate certain loss.

18 THE COURT: Perhaps Mr. Naftalis wants to speak?

19 MR. MCGINLEY: It's okay. Thank you.

20 THE COURT: While you're standing, sir, I do have one 21 other question for you and this is on the section about the 22 stay component and not the intervention component: I
23 understand the argument that a stay is appropriate because to 24 not stay the civil matter would potentially put the defendants
25 in the civil case and in the criminal case into a position of

1 having to decide whether to invoke their Fifth Amendment right
2 against self-incrimination and/or suffer the possibility of an
3 adverse inference in the SEC matter. So, that's the argument I
4 get.

5 You mentioned it but I actually don't know, and I want
6 to hear from the defendants, whether that is -- it was 7 presented as a hypothetical in your briefing, obviously,
8 because you represent the government you don't represent the 9 defendants. I don't know whether the defendants actually do
10 feel what you've articulated as a concern.

11 What I find less compelling, even though I know there
12 are courts that have found this, is the notion that I should 13 stay the civil proceedings because to do otherwise would allow 14 greater discovery than one would get under the Federal Rules of 15 Criminal Procedure. I don't know if any of the U.S. Attorney's
16 Office wishes to speak to that, but I have to say, I'm not sure 17 why that's a thing I should be enshrining. What I am mean to 18 say is, if someone is entitled to a quantum of discovery under 19 the civil rules and a smaller quantum of discovery under the 20 criminal rules, if they are, in fact, entitled to that 21 discovery, I'm just not sure why I should be making sure they 22 get less than that to which they are entitled.

23 So, that has been presented to me as sort of a public
24 policy justification for why I would want to stay the matter,
25 and it's not one that I understand fully. So, I was hoping to

G8BKSECC

CONFERENCE

1 hear from anyone who would enlighten me on that one.

2 MR. MCGINLEY: If I may just go first, your Honor, on 3 the government's position?

4 THE COURT: Sure.

5 MR. MCGINLEY: I think the issue there, the 6 government's concern is that depositions would go forward
7 earlier in the civil case of the cooperating witness, for 8 example, Mr. Plaford --

9 THE COURT: Right.

10 MR. MCGINLEY: -- and as a result, that gives a
11 defendant in their upcoming criminal matter an early shot at a 12 cooperating witness and could be used by a defendant in the 13 criminal matter later to tailor their defense, where they would 14 get that information much sooner than the 3500 materials.

15 THE COURT: I appreciate that. I think you may just 16 have hit on an issue that I had not fully fleshed out, which 17 is: I am concerned about what might be considered hiding the 18 ball from a defendant in a criminal or civil case. What you
19 are saying is the obverse of that, which is a concern that 20 giving them the information earlier than 3500 would require
21 might engender a tailoring or shaping of the defense in a way
22 that might not actually be factually accurate.

23 MR. MCGINLEY: I think that is the concern, your 24 Honor. On your point about the universe of discovery, I can
25 just say, as far as the one active case, versus Defendant

G8BKSECC

CONFERENCE

1 Stefan Lumiere, we have produced discovery in that case now to
2 Mr. Creizman. It is extremely voluminous. He has that all
3 now, and so Mr. Lumiere is not in a position of where he has a
4 lack of discovery.

5 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you very much.

6 Does anyone else want to speak for the government on 7 either application? No? All right, thank you.

8 Mr. Riely, may I hear from you, sir. I assume you're 9 not opposing either of these but can I understand, sir, the 10 state of play with respect to the three actions that are before
11 me?

12 MR. RIELY: Yes, sure, absolutely, your Honor.

13 As you mentioned, Mr. Johnston put in an application
14 shortly before the conference, informing the Court that we're 15 in settlement negotiations and we hope to have a final 16 resolution by October 31st, which was, I think, the new 17 adjourned date.

18 With Mr. Valvani, we're in the process of formulating
19 a recommendation to our client, and I think we'll have an 20 answer for the Court in 60 days as to whether that matter will 21 proceed.

22 THE COURT: Okay.

23 As to Mr. Plaford, things are happening?

24 MR. RIELY: Yes, exactly.

25 THE COURT: Sir, if I were to stay this, things would

G8BKSECC

CONFERENCE

1 stop happening; is that correct? Or is it simply that
2 discovery would not be produced? I don't know as a practical
3 matter whether my staying the case actually means the parties
4 stop talking to each other or it just means that discovery does
5 not go forward, depositions don't go forward, there is no
6 initial pretrial conference, but the parties will wait and see
7 what happens with respect to the criminal case before beginning
8 again discussions on the civil case.

9 MR. RIELY: Yes, I think in the absence of a stay, the 10 parties would be under pressure to get a settlement done before
11 the answer is due, for example. And I think the issues that we 12 are still working out relate to not so much liability but more 13 to the level of disgorgement and civil penalties, and so if we 14 were to determine those issues later, I don't think that that 15 would be inefficient.

16 THE COURT: Okay. And with respect to -- I kept 17 Ms. Burns here because I wanted to make sure I had a sense of 18 what was happening as that was the case that I was not staying.
19 So that I'm sure I understand what you're saying, you're in 20 discussions with Ms. Burns and something will happen with 21 respect to the civil case as it pertains to Mr. Valvani in the 22 coming weeks and months?

23 MR. RIELY: Correct.

24 THE COURT: Okay.

25 So, my inaction with respect to that case, in the

G8BKSECC

CONFERENCE

1 sense of not staying it, is not going to adversely affect the
2 resolution of that case?

3 MR. RIELY: That's correct.

4 THE COURT: Do I not need to set up an initial 5 pretrial conference in the case? Is this sufficing as the 6 initial pretrial conference?

7 MR. RIELY: I think this suffices as the initial 8 pretrial conference and I think there's some ambiguity as to 9 whether an answer even needs to be filed, so I think we'd be 10 willing to stipulate that nothing needs to happen in this case
11 for the next 60 days and we'll provide a report to the Court in 12 60 days.

13 THE COURT: Okay.

14 Ms. Burns, that may be worth the price of admission
15 for you. Does that make sense? I will not have a pretrial
16 conference in this case inasmuch as Mr. Johnston is nearing 17 resolution and your client, or the estate of your client, is 18 working with the SEC to determine what is the proper course of 19 action in that case.

20 MS. BURNS: Yes, your Honor. That sounds exactly
21 right. And just to be clear, I think the SEC has agreed that 22 there's no answer needed in this case at this time.

23 THE COURT: I heard that. I am agreeing as well. I'm 24 not going order to there to be an answer. I am going to expect
25 to hear from someone within the next 60 days as to whether the

G8BKSECC

CONFERENCE

1 case has been resolved in a manner that doesn't require 2 additional proceedings or whether it would make sense to have 3 the parties in for an initial pretrial conference, at which 4 time we can discuss a response.

5 MS. BURNS: Thank you, your Honor.

6 THE COURT: All right. Now you may leave, and thank 7 you very much.

8 Mr. Creizman, if I may turn to you, sir, what is your 9 position, or your client's position, with respect to both 10 applications from the government?

11 MR. CREIZMAN: Your Honor, we don't object and the 12 reason why we're not objecting is more of a matter of 13 practicalities than it is the reasons that the government
14 proffered. In our case, we have a firm trial date about six -- 15 less than maybe six months from now. And while we would 16 vigorously defend the SEC case, we are also going to vigorously
17 defend the criminal case. And I think it would be 18 extraordinarily difficult to do that under the circumstances
19 that we're facing now with the criminal case.

20 There is a voluminous amount of discovery, about two 21 or three terabytes' worth, so I'm going to be very busy over
22 the next several months.

23 THE COURT: That is understood. Sir, do you have a
24 concern in the civil case about your client's invocation or not 25 of his Fifth Amendment right not to testify, not to be deposed?

G8BKSECC

CONFERENCE

1 MR. CREIZMAN: That's always certainly a concern for
2 any defense lawyer but I don't think that that that's the basis
3 of any objection here from the defense.

4 THE COURT: Okay. Let me ask the question a little
5 bit differently. As I am exploring the issues and the reasons
6 why I would be granting a stay in a civil case, one of the 7 things that's cited -- in fact, the government cited it here --
8 was the possibility that your client would have to be put to 9 the Hobson's choice of deciding whether or not to invoke his 10 Fifth Amendment right. I appreciate what you're saying, which 11 is, as a practical matter, the cases are so huge, that they 12 can't be done simultaneously, but I am sort of asking whether 13 another consideration that you have, as opposed to it being 14 sort of a theoretical consideration, is were this case to go
15 forward, your client would have to make that decision.

16 MR. CREIZMAN: I appreciate the government's concern,
17 of course, for my client's Fifth Amendment rights and that 18 dilemma but, no, that is not a basis for our objection
19 whatsoever.

20 THE COURT: Or for your lack of objection?

21 MR. CREIZMAN: Or lack of objection, absolutely. We 22 are not not objecting on those grounds -- we're not objecting
23 to the stay, we're not objecting to the stay based on his Fifth
24 Amendment issue.

25 THE COURT: Okay.

G8BKSECC

CONFERENCE

1 MR. CREIZMAN: That's not a concern in our situation.

2 THE COURT: So your client is not worried about the 3 Fifth Amendment issue?

4 MR. CREIZMAN: No.

5 THE COURT: Okay. I appreciate that clarification.
6 Thank you.

7 Mr. Smith, might I hear from you, sir?

8 MR. SMITH: Yes, your Honor.

9 THE COURT: In particular, I understand that you are 10 not objecting to the government's application for both
11 intervention and for the stay. Is that correct?

12 MR. SMITH: That's correct, your Honor.

13 THE COURT: All right. Could you give me some sense
14 as to why?

15 MR. SMITH: Well, actually, the Fifth Amendment is a
16 concern for my client.

17 THE COURT: Okay.

18 MR. SMITH: At this point, my client has yet to be 19 sentenced and so his Fifth Amendment right still does apply.
20 While we have been working, and hopefully will be working,
21 towards a resolution with the SEC, as the government indicated,
22 there is quite a bit of information that we still need to go
23 through before we can consent to anything or agree upon any 24 numbers, and we have been working to do that. I believe that 25 will continue, your Honor, even with the matter being stayed.

1 However, issues of restitution, disgorgement, things of that 2 nature, there is an overlap between the criminal case and the 3 civil case, and I think that those issues will be determined at 4 some point clearly by a criminal judgment as well at the end of 5 the criminal case at the time of sentencing, but until that 6 time comes, whether my client testifies or not, what the 7 evidence turns out to be, what his sentencing is, his Fifth
8 Amendment does apply, and I would be advising him to assert the 9 Fifth should he be required to testify at a deposition in the 10 SEC action. And, accordingly, he would face the Hobson's 11 choice of having the adverse inference in that matter, if it's 12 not resolved, versus testifying and potentially compromising
13 his Fifth Amendment.

14 THE COURT: Sir, you heard Mr. Creizman indicate a
15 concern he has is trying to administer or have your client
16 represented adequately in both cases at the same time can be 17 difficult. Do you have that issue as well?

18 MR. SMITH: I certainly do, your Honor. There are 19 divergent issues, there are similar issues, there are also 20 separate issues; and while my task is, I think, not going to be 21 nearly as lofty as Mr. Creizman's is preparing for a trial,
22 there are still issues that need to be resolved and dealt with 23 separately. So, I do believe that just the logistics of 24 dealing with both components at the same time will be very 25 difficult as well.

G8BKSECC

CONFERENCE

1 THE COURT: And, sir, do you agree that the
2 government's ability to intervene is one as of right under Rule
3 24(a)(2)?

4 MR. SMITH: Yes, your Honor, I believe that, as they
5 have alleged in their papers, I believe they do have that 6 right.

7 THE COURT: Okay. Anything else you'd like me to 8 know, sir?

9 MR. SMITH: Nothing, your Honor.

10 THE COURT: Mr. McGinley, anything else I should know
11 from the government?

12 MR. MCGINLEY: Nothing further from the government.

13 THE COURT: All right. Thank you very much.

14 I decided not to bring you all here just merely to put 15 you through paces. I actually really am interested in the 16 issue of staying these proceedings because I am aware of at 17 least two judges in this district, Judge Batts and Judge
18 Rakoff, who have elected in certain cases not to stay the civil 19 side. I believe Judge Rakoff, as he articulated it to me, was 20 of the view that if the Commission were to bring a case
21 concurrently with a prosecution by the United States Attorney's
22 Office, they should be prepared to proceed at the same time.
23 And there is obviously merit in everything that Judge Rakoff
24 says, so I took what he said very seriously and thought about 25 it, and yet on this case, on these facts, I do think it makes

G8BKSECC

CONFERENCE

1 sense both to permit the government to intervene as of right
2 and to stay the cases ending in the docket numbers of 4511 and 3 4513.

4 With respect to the former, looking at Rule 24(a)(2),
5 the applicant in this case, the government, must file timely,
6 demonstrate an interest in the action, show an impairment of 7 that interest arising from an unfavorable disposition, and have
8 an interest not otherwise protected. All four of those factors
9 are met in this case, given the fact that there is a
10 contemporaneous criminal prosecution at the same time as these 11 civil matters.

12 With respect to the appropriateness of a stay, there
13 are more factors I must consider. What they include are:

14 The extent to which the issues in the criminal case
15 overlap with those presented in the civil case. Obviously 16 there's very substantial overlap here;

17 The status of the case, including whether the 18 defendants have been indicted. That too has been met here;

19 The private interests of the plaintiffs in proceeding
20 expeditiously weighed against the prejudice to defendants
21 caused by the delay. Here, I don't get the sense that the SEC
22 wishes to proceed in derogation of the government's request for 23 a stay. And in terms of the prejudice to plaintiffs caused by 24 the delay, I don't think there is any because it doesn't sound
25 like this will go on for years and years. I certainly won't

1 let it happen;

2 As yet another factor, the interests and burdens on
3 the defendants. I should have made that more clear the first
4 time. And in speaking with Mr. Creizman and Mr. Smith, I
5 understand why each of them feels and believes that their 6 client is best served by having the respective civil matter as 7 to that client stayed;

8 The interests of the courts: From my perspective, I'm 9 happy to do these cases but do I believe there's a certain 10 amount of duplication because my experience has been that 11 oftentimes resolution of the criminal case can expedite
12 resolution of the civil case and so, rather than having them
13 proceed on the same tracks, it may make sense to have mine
14 follow the criminal case;

15 And then the public interest: I've explored with 16 Mr. McGinley my concerns about the disparity in discovery
17 afforded under the civil and criminal rules but reasons have 18 been given to me that are appropriate as to why this is 19 something I should be concerned about. More than that, each of 20 the counsel for the defendants in the civil cases has explained
21 to me what their concerns are and why their clients are better
22 served with a stay.

23 So, I will permit the intervention in both cases. I
24 will stay the proceedings in both cases. I will understand in 25 the 4512 case, which I suppose I'll now add to the docket of

G8BKSECC

CONFERENCE

1 this because I did hear from counsel for both sides, that I'll
2 be hearing in 60 days from them about what to do, and if that 3 does not work out as the parties currently believe it will,
4 then we'll have everybody in.

5 Mr. Riely, is there anything else we should be 6 discussing today?

7 MR. RIELY: No. Thank you, your Honor.

8 THE COURT: Thank you very much.

9 Mr. McGinley, anything further?

10 MR. MCGINLEY: Not from the government.

11 THE COURT: Mr. Creizman, anything else?

12 MR. CREIZMAN: No, thank you, your Honor.

13 THE COURT: And Mr. Smith?

14 MR. SMITH: No, thank you, your Honor.

15 THE COURT: Thank you, all, for coming in. Thank you.
